Midweek English Language Teaching Sessions

In at the Deep End
By
James Twiddy

The summer is here and your school is busier than it has ever been. This training session is designed for teachers new to the EFL environment and for those who wish for helpful hints when faced with difficult and unexpected situations. We will look at how to prepare lessons when there is no preparation time, how to keep a lesson going when you run out of material, and what to do in emergency cover situations, and how to take care of yourself.
