Midweek English Language Teaching Sessions

Critical Thinking in ELT

By

Martyn Ford

Teachers nowadays are encouraged to develop students' thinking skills and as a result learning English means learning to think in English. This workshop aims to explore critical thinking. CT is often practised in IELTS exam preparation but has much wider applications to ELT at different levels and ages. This workshop will attempt to set out the core principles and suggest practical tasks and activities to develop critical thinking. This is a joint session booked in conjunction with Ed Russell's talk at the same venue.
